HISTORY & POLITICAL EDUCATION

PAPER ONE

TIME: 2:15 MINS

INSTRUCTIONS:

- This paper consists of two sections.
- Section A is compulsory
- Do only one item in section B
- Do 3 items in total.

SECTION A

ITEM ONE

In 2023, the Kumam people of Eastern Uganda had an inauguration of their first King with the title of 'Won Ateker Papa Kumam'. This has made the Kumam to develop cultural pride, putting them at the same footing with others like Baganda, Acholi and Basoga, whose cultural institutions have lasted for years.

The Kumam King, Papa Rapheal Otya on his inauguration said that the Kumam cultural heritage would benefit the Kumam by uniting them, preserve their cultural identity, among others.

However, a section of people in the country argue that such institutions since their reinstatement from 1993, have never benefited Ugandans, A young man in central Uganda is urging his member of parliament to move a motion that all cultural institutions in Uganda should be abolished because local people gain nothing from them.

The Ministry of Ethics and integrity is has organized a workshop in your district and you have been identified to be one of the key speakers on the theme "Culture for development".

TASK:

In your speech,

- a) Enable people in the workshop to embrace the theme.
- b) Identify challenges leaders in such institutions face and show how they can overcome them.

ITEM TWO

By 1963, all the three East African Countries that comprised of Tanzania, Uganda and Kenya had regained their independence from Britain. They had been subjected to colonial rule for over 70 years. However, this success came after a long struggle that pressurized the British to grant them independence. You were approached by a group of s.5 students researching on why East African Countries after 1946, were in need of self-rule and the approaches they applied to get back independence. There's need for you to come to their rescue because you are more informed about the topic of independence struggles in East Africa.

TASK:

- a) Discuss why the above struggles were necessary.
- b) If you were part of the struggle, which approaches would you have used to East Africa's need by them.

SECTION B

ITEM THREE

Uganda is one of the countries in East Africa with the best local government system in the region. At the top is the LC 5 and at the bottom is the LC1 that play a key role in ensuring government programs and services effectively reach the common man.

A university student is doing research in your sub-county on the topic ‘impact of the LC 3 on community development’ for him to achieve the objectives of his topic, he should understand the committees in the LC 3 structure and their functions.

You are the chairperson LC 3 of your sub-county and this student has visited your office.

TASK:

- a) Educate him about all the committees in your council, explaining two roles of each.
- b) Assist him with information on how you solve challenges that arise from your office.

ITEM FOUR

For centuries, the black man had seen subjected all forms of oppression that include, slavery, political suppression and economic injustices by the European colonial masters. These forced men like W.E.B DU Bocs, George Padmore, Kwame Nkrumah, among others to stand up to fight for and defend the rights of the blackman both in the diaspora and African continent. This movement saw many African countries achieving independence and the blackman regaining his dignity. However, currently, its black people who are subjected more to modern slavery and other forms of oppression than any other race in the world today.

A heated discussion erupted in your class with one section arguing that the 19th century black movement has helped to shape the political and social systems in Africa, while the other section say there's need for the movement to revisit its aims and objectives, otherwise, Africa will soon again be under the white man's control.

TASK:

- a) Join the discussion and choose one side, giving reasons for your answer.
- b) Suggest to the East African leaders how they can achieve meaningful unity and cooperation.
